

TOUR GUIDE: This way everyone! Follow me! I will be your tour guide and today we're going to be seeing lots of exciting things at the University of Illinois at Chicago!

STUDENTS: Wow! Look at this campus! It looks so nice and new.

TOUR GUIDE: Yes, of course! We have all these wonderful buildings just for people to live in and take website pictures in front of. This is the Academic and Residential Complex Building. Follow me, we'll take a look inside.

Later....

TOUR GUIDE: And that completes the end of the tour!

STUDENTS: What? We didn't even see any classrooms!

TOUR GUIDE: Uh....Well, we did see the Academic side of the Academic and Residential Complex Building. Anyways, right this way, folks. We'll be concluding our tour at this lovely expensive building here.

STUDENT: Wait, what's down that alley?

TOUR GUIDE: Nothing! Nothing, nothing, of course. Just keep coming this way.

STUDENT: Wait, I see students. Is that....also UIC?

TOUR GUIDE: No, no, no, of course not. Haha. Those buildings? No way! Haha....

STUDENT 1: It looks like the electricity's not even working in there.

STUDENT 2: Does that building have a bathroom?

STUDENT 3: Is that a mouse?

STUDENT 4: Man, I feel bad for those people who go there. I'm glad UIC's not like this.

TOUR GUIDE: Nope, definitely not UIC. Must be the next university over. Keep your eyes this way, people, on the new buildings. This way, folks. Keep walking, keep walking. Nothing to see there!

Later....

SUPERVISOR: How did the tour go?

TOUR GUIDE: Not too good. I followed all the instructions and almost lost the entire population of customers because they saw those other buildings.

SUPERVISOR: But you didn't. Did you?

TOUR GUIDE: No. I focused only on the expensive glass buildings like you asked me to. All the buildings where they actually take classes were avoided as much as possible.

SUPERVISOR: Good. Just get them to sign-up. We have another tour coming in soon.

End.
